

It's Alright (for Lazarus)

It's alright

The echo of the veil torn
Is louder than your sisters' mourn
And the spirit's wind...

It blows across the last divide
A ferry back to our side
The bitter and the sweet collide
And now everything's changed

So it's alright
You can open your eyes now
And through the shroud
Hear my voice
Over the crowd
This is not for you
But if you knew
All it will signify
You'd know why
I cry
I cry

Breathe in Hear your heart beat again
Feel the rags fall away
Touch your skin

I know you didn't ask for this
It doesn't even feel like home
But now that you're completely known
Lift up your head

It's alright

You can open your eyes now
And through the shroud
Hear my voice
Over the crowd
This is not for you
But if you knew
All it will signify
You'd know why
I cry
I cry

*And when it's time to leave again
You'll be more than ready to 'Cause this time when you leave, my friend
I'll be there to welcome you*